PREAMBLE

Through the act of governing, the Uchucklesaht Tribe assumes the responsibility of providing transparent and accountable government. This requires that Uchucklesaht institutions, Uchucklesaht officials and enforcement officers adhere to the Constitution, act within the law and at all times be impartial and free from improper influence and interference. Uchucklesaht citizens and Uchucklesaht enrollees have a right to expect that they will be treated by our government with dignity, respect and courtesy, guided by principles of natural justice and our rights and values set out in our Constitution.

To assist with realizing these goals, the Uchucklesaht Tribe desires a dispute resolution process that is accessible, affordable, understandable and proportionate to the abilities and sensibilities of its users. The resolution of disputes with, and complaints against, the Uchucklesaht government or anyone acting on its behalf or allegations that the law under which government action is taken is invalid should, where possible, be resolved by the parties informally.

Where informal resolution is not possible, the parties to such disputes or complaints, or those who make allegations of a law's invalidity and those acting under that law, are entitled to a resolution of the matter in a way that is expeditious, both in process and in rendering decisions, minimizes any disadvantage unrepresented parties may experience and reaches a final resolution of the matter that is just and fair with reasons given, where appropriate. The resolution process established to resolve such matters must also provide consistency, both in procedure and adjudicative outcomes.

The Uchucklesaht Tribe adopts this Act based on these values.
